

AOCNP Practice Test Questions and Answers

1. Brachytherapy involves:

- A) Placement of radioactive sources directly into or adjacent to the tumor
- B) External beam radiation from a linear accelerator
- C) Oral administration of radioactive iodine
- D) Intravenous infusion of a radioactive antibody

2. Radiation recall is defined as:

- A) Inflammatory reaction at a prior radiation site triggered by a systemic drug
- B) Skin reaction from a second radiation course to the same site
- C) Fatigue persisting after radiation is completed
- D) Erythema appearing during radiation fractions

3. R0 resection in surgical oncology means:

- A) Residual microscopic disease at the margins
- B) Complete resection with negative (clear) surgical margins
- C) Palliative debulking with gross disease remaining
- D) Resection with intraoperative frozen section only

4. Anticipatory grief is best described as:

- A) Grief experienced before an expected loss occurs
- B) Grief that is absent initially and surfaces months later
- C) Complicated grief requiring psychiatric diagnosis
- D) Grief experienced only by the patient, not caregivers

Answers: 1-A 2-A 3-B 4-A

For More AOCNP Questions and Answers FREE, AOCNP Online Prep Training, AOCNP Exam, AOCNP Study Guide, AOCNP Flashcards, AOCNP Quizzes visit:

AOCNP Practice Test